

Care Routines

Keeping poultry is a fun and exciting hobby, but if you are new to it, it can be hard to know what you should be doing and when in order to care for your birds!

This care sheet will give you an idea of some of the key jobs you should remember to do to keep your birds happy and healthy. We have split it in to Daily, Weekly and Monthly jobs for ease.

Daily jobs:

- Feed and Water: Clean the drinker every time you fill it up so that your birds are always drinking clean water and replenish their food
- In the later afternoon/early evening, collect any eggs and scatter a handful of corn as a treat

Weekly jobs

Complete these jobs at least weekly, but they may require doing more frequently if you have a larger number of birds

- Clean out your chicken house thoroughly to prevent any disease spreading and respiratory issues arising
- Use Mite Powder in the nest box and roosting area
- Clean feeders
- Examine your birds to make sure they are healthy. Check between feathers and around the vent area

Monthly Jobs

- Dust chickens with mite powder to provide greater protection
- Add Apple Cider Vinegar to drinking water. This helps to keep the chicken's stomach healthy. You can do this more often if you wish
- Add Poultry Spice to feed. Poultry Spice helps to improve the all-round condition and performance of your birds, helps them get over their moult more quickly and promotes better egg quality.
